The end of an exciting Book Week!

Book week kicked off with an exciting book assembly ran by Sian which highlighted some of the teacher's favourite books from when they were growing up. On Tuesday, the children were over the moon to find out you were invited in to share a story with them. It was a lovely event and one which always brings a smile to my face seeing so many engaged and excited children enjoying book time. On Wednesday, the children enjoyed a full day of activities based on the book 'My grandpa's amazing inventions'. The children created their own inventions in drawing club including, breakfast machines, candy machines, a sucking rubbish machine, an immediate toast machine and many more great ideas! Book Week ended today with our dressing up today and what amazing costumes we had! Well done, Cherries for a fantastic Book Week!

On Friday, we sadly said goodbye to Katie and her family as they head back to China. We wish them all the best! I know some lovely strong friendships were made and Katie wrote each child a postcard with their email address on to stay in touch.

This week, Kate will be joining me in Cherry class on Monday and Wednesday morning so that she can spend time with the children and get to know them before starting on Tuesday 19th March. She is looking forward to returning and we have already started planning for a very exciting Summer term together.

Wishing you a lovely weekend,

Georgie and the Cherry Class team
