

Maple Class Newsletter

12/12/25

Another brilliant week in Maple!

Despite all the festive events, we have continued to persevere with our maths learning! We have been finishing off our fractions unit, looking at how to add and subtract mixed numbers by breaking down the procedure into small steps. These small steps have helped us identify specifically where we need help and to become much more independent learners.

Our topic lessons this week have been full of collaboration and creativity. Inspired by the story of Thor and the Giants, we worked in small groups to write and act out our own Viking legends based on their gods and goddesses to perform to the rest of the class.

This week was also a celebration of all the hard work key stage two have put into their Christmas musical, which we performed to friends and family on Tuesday and Wednesday. Maple Class were superb! They led the show with confidence, enthusiasm, but most of all pure Christmas joy! I am incredibly proud of them all.

One more week to go!

Have a lovely weekend!

Katy and Maple Class

Next week's learning

Maths: Finishing fractions unit

English: Writing: Fiction unit on warning tales
- independent writes, Spelling: end of term spelling test

Science: The moon

Topic: Viking food and drink

RE: My understanding of scripture

This week's awards

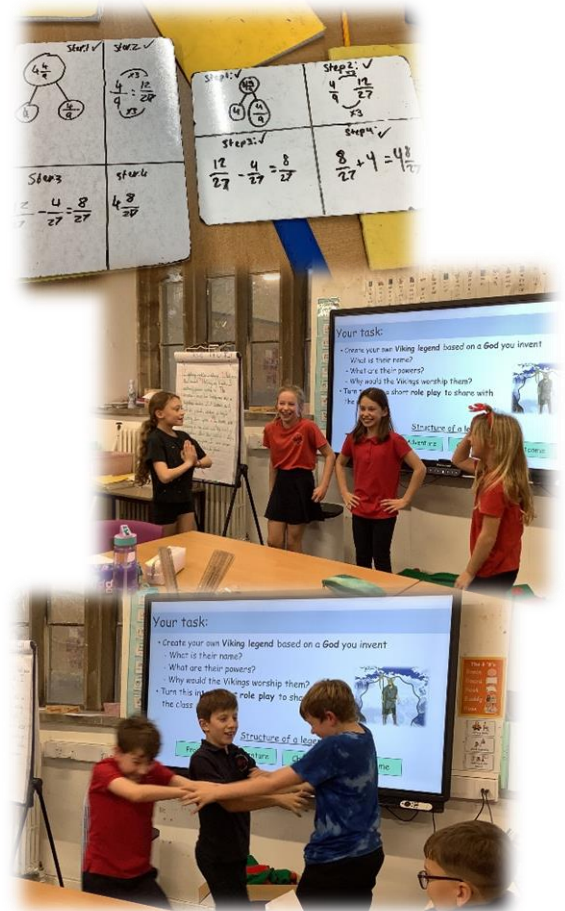

Teacher awards:

Will and Amber

Star of the week: Bea

Presentation award: Margot

Reminders

Tuesday: Christmas church service

Wednesday: Choir performance 1:30pm

Friday: 2pm finish!