Dear Parents and Carers,

Stone Age Experience Day – A Fantastic Start to Our New Topic

We had a wonderful day launching our new Stone Age history topic with an exciting, hands-on Stone Age Experience Day. This immersive experience sparked curiosity and enthusiasm, and the children approached every activity with energy and focus.

The day began in the hall with Elm Class, led by our workshop provider, Liane. Together, the children explored human evolution, the Stone Age timeline, and a range of evolutionary skulls. They handled Stone Age artefacts to discover how people lived long ago and enjoyed dressing up in Stone Age clothing.

Back in class, pupils compared and drew skulls, created Stone Age cave paintings to explore early communication, and took part in an archaeology activity that showed how evidence helps us understand the past.

The day ended at Mike's Meadow with tool making and archery. The children were highly engaged throughout, providing an excellent start to our history learning this term.
